CHAIRMAN'S REPORT

This has been the first year of operation for our new organisation, Australian War Widows (Queensland) (AWWQ), formed by the amalgamation of the War Widows' Guild of Australia (Queensland) Inc with the Queensland Vasey Housing Auxiliary (War Widows Guild). The AWWQ Board of Directors, comprised of War Widows and independent directors, has had a very busy year indeed.

The year saw a wonderful celebration of our 70th anniversary and planning is well underway for the 2018 Friendship Day in Townsville in August

The AWWQ Board has put in place a new strategic direction, focused on the provision of improved services for members and a detailed strategic plan is being developed following from an independently facilitated strategic planning workshop held in March 2018. A review of the staffing structure of AWWQ was undertaken with emphasis on wellness support services for members, communications and long term financial sustainability.

Considerable time has been devoted to the development of an Investment Strategy to secure the long term financial viability of AWWQ. Tenders were sought from reputable professional investment management companies to manage the organisation's capital reserves to generate income to meet short, medium and longer term requirements for the provision of member services. Brisbane based Lambda Investment Solutions has been appointed to manage AWWQ's investment funds in accordance with our investment strategy.

Lambda operates on a fee for service basis and is not involved in the incentive commission structures used by some investment managers that have again been brought to light by the current Royal Commission into the banking industry. The transition from low yielding term deposits to managed investments has resulted in a reduction of realised investment income for the 2018 year with investments structured to meet short, medium and long-term needs.

Continuing the previously advised strategy of reducing the AWWQ portfolio of affordable housing units as demand for this type of accommodation declines, Jessie Vasey Place in Toowong was recently sold and realised $2,680,000, a very good result. Funds generated by the sale have been invested in the short term pending further consideration by the Board and its financial advisers. AWWQ remains committed to supporting affordable housing for war widows in need and continues to operate Marina Court in New Farm and Amity Place in Redcliffe.

Members will be aware of the improvements made to our quarterly Bulletin magazine and the greatly enhanced AWWQ web site. The Board believes that communication with our members is a priority and is working hard to increase community awareness and to reach Queensland war widows who have not yet joined AWWQ. To this end increased focus is being placed on developing the profile of the organisation across the state. Particular emphasis is being placed on strengthening our position in North Queensland and I thank our Townsville based Director Suzi Vincent and CEO Sonja Gilchrist for their hard work there. Townsville is a city with a major military presence and a significant war widow population and the Board acknowledges that more support is required there and throughout the north. Revenue for this year is $883,673 compared to $1,211,452 in 2017.

While general revenue lines are generally comparable, the realisation of a substantial $400,000 bequest had a very positive effect on revenue in 2017. The last year has been a period of very significant change with changes to financial structures following the amalgamation of the former War Widows Guild (Queensland) and Vasey Housing Auxiliary (Queensland) to form AWWQ.

A contract for the sale of Jessie Vasey Place in Toowong was signed in March 2018 however settlement did not occur until after the close of the financial year, so the proceeds of the sale do not appear in this financial report.

The previously referenced impacts of amalgamation and changes to financial structures, combined with some changes to reporting requirements, have meant that 2018 financial results appear to be significantly lower than those for 2017.

The realisation of investment returns from the newly established managed investment portfolio and the proceeds from the sale of Jessie Vasey Place, together with reductions in expenses resulting from the reorganisation will see much more encouraging results in 2019.

I sincerely thank the Board Directors for their efforts and dedication over this past year and thank the staff for their assistance and hard work during this time of transition. I would like to particularly thank State President Jenny Gregory for her insight and tireless work. I would also like to place on record my appreciation for the work done by our CEO Sonja Gilchrist

STATE PRESIDENT'S REPORT

One of the greatest pleasures of writing this report for the AGM is the opportunity it gives me to look back on the year and think, "did AWWQ really do all that?". I am proud of what we have achieved over the past twelve months and look forward to even more achievements in the coming year.

I feel fortunate and humbled to have held position as President of Australian War Widows Queensland (AWWQ) for the past 2 years. I have enjoyed working with an incredible, skilled and compassionate Board, staff and volunteers.

We have been working on quite a lot over the past twelve months. An annual strategic plan for AWWQ has been drafted and will be further developed over the next few months. The strategic plan is important as it gives us firm direction and will inform our operational activities, ensuring that members are supported and the organisation grows sustainably.

There have been some changes at staff level as well. Position descriptions and workplace agreements were revised in alignment to the award. Sadly, we said farewell to Ann Orchard, our Community Services officer. Anne dedicated eighteen years to AWWQ and she will be missed. We welcomed Ms. Rebecca Cordingley as our new Lifestyle Coordinator. Rebecca brings a great deal of enthusiasm, passion and experience to the role.

The change of position title from 'Community Services officer' to 'Lifestyle Support Coordinator' better reflects the fact that no matter what age our members are, they may not require "welfare" but all have a "lifestyle" that we wish to maintain.

Various functions have been held throughout the past year, most notably our 70th birthday celebration, Christmas lunch, Friendship Day in Toowoomba and the most recent very successful Friendship Day in Townsville. AWWQ also hosted a Mothers' Day Cocktail events in both Townsville and Brisbane. All of these events were outstanding successes.

Additionally, I have had the honour of representing you, the members, at many commemorative services over the past year, including a number of functions at Government House. I would like to recognise the Honourable Paul de Jersey AC, Governor of Queensland and his wife Kaye de Jersey for their support of our defence forces and the ex-service community.

The 'Adopt a Sub-Branch/Social group initiative' is a continued success. Our executive committees and coordinators appreciate the communication which keeps them abreast of what is happening in AWWQ.

Furthermore, we were very pleased to locate more Korean widows amongst our members, enabling them to receive the Korean Peace Medal.

Our Bulletin goes from strength to strength, so much so that comments regarding our 2018 Winter Bulletin have included feedback such as, "the best ever". We are working toward consistent, standardised and harmonious branding across our various publications and promotional material.

Our website has been updated to a more user-friendly format and provides much more functionality for our members and the general public. We will continue working toward further improvements, including positive and productive Social Media platforms such as Facebook which enables an additional form of interaction from our members.

During the last 12 months I have also had the pleasure of attending many of our sub-branch AGMs and social group meetings. It is always enjoyable to spend time with our members, listening to their stories and taking away important lessons about living life to the fullest. It is with regret that I note two of our groups may cease meeting regularly due to our ageing membership and mobility challenges. A special thank you must be extended to all of the sub branch executives and committees and social group coordinators who have committed their time over the past year and indeed, in many cases, over the past 15 or 20 more years. The greatest volunteer participation any member can make to AWWQ is to serve on the committee of their sub branch or on the State Board.

As we all know, our membership base is ageing. It is for this reason that it is important to the sustainability of our organisation to grow our membership base by attracting new members. Please consider how you can contribute to this growth by bringing new members on board, particularly those newly widowed. We must not forget to encourage our children, friends and extended family members to join as Associate Members. Let us also not forget to welcome family carers who are caring for ex-service people struggling with physical and/or mental health challenges.

I would particularly like to acknowledge the Board for their selfless dedication and thank them for their contributions which have enabled AWWQ to remain strong and viable. I would like to thank our ex CEO Sonja Gilchrist for overseeing the many changes and challenges that AWWQ has been through over the past year.

In closing, I wish to give a warm welcome to our new CEO, Natasha Oickle, who we are very excited to have on board. I look forward to working with Natasha, the Board, the staff and volunteers of AWWQ and all our wonderful members to make the next 12 months an exciting one, filled with fun, celebration, growth and further development.

Mrs Jennifer Gregory
